WESTERLY LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED

Druggist Almy Furnishes Bonds of $1,000 for Appearance at April Term—S. of V. Camp Entertains State Officers—Li-State League Schedule Formulated for Approval—Temperature 7 Degrees Early Friday.

There was a regular session of the Third district court at Westerly Friday, Judge Oliver H. Williams presiding. Owing to the indisposition of attorney for defense, Edward A. Constance for one week in the case against Willis Almy, charged with keeping liquor for sale contrary to law. Mr. Almy is a registered pharmacist, and the court has ruled that the finding of liquor in the store was evidence of violation of law. A question of constitutionality of the statute was raised on this point and the attorney was to be given further hearing in this matter. In the case against Mr. Almy, charging him with maintaining a liquor nuisance, heard two weeks ago, judgment was given finding him probably guilty. Bonds of $1,000 were furnished for appearance at the April session of the superior court.

The other criminal cases were continued. On the civil side there was a general continuation of the cases.

The funeral services of Mrs. Margaret McKenzie Roseman, wife of Robert Roseman, who died Wednesday, were conducted by Rev. Samuel M. Calkhoun at the residence of James J. McKenzie, 10 West street. A seven-cent supper and entertainment in the vestry of Grace Methodist Episcopal church proved an enjoyable and profitable novelty. Senior Vice Commander E. R. Barker and Department Adj. Arthur B. Spink, of Providence, were official visitors at the regular meeting of Robert Roseman, who died Wednesday. A reception was given the visitors at the close of the business session and refreshments were served.
